Abstract –

Education was possible for women on how to save themselves from the crisis that comes with life. How to protect oneself and a woman's self-confidence is enhanced by her education. And how to deal with any kind of situation in the middle of it. Then there are violence against women. Many problems like crimes against women, atrocities against women, sexual harassment, mental harassment, etc. can be faced by a woman who is self-reliant and she needs education to become self-reliant. Be it gender-based domestic violence against women or anything else, this and any kind of violence can happen to anyone, anytime, anywhere, and women who are educated can raise their voices in such situations by becoming mentally strong. But some women and especially girls are vulnerable. If we look, for example, at women in our country who are young girls and older women, whether lesbian, or bisexual, or transgender, or intersex, who identify as all these situations, these are immigrants and refugees, as well as indigenous women and ethnic minorities. Women who are, or are, HIV positive and women and girls with disabilities are the highest victims of violence. Investing properly in the education of women and girls will definitely change our communities, countries and the world as a whole. Women and girls who receive this education, and therefore girls who marry at an early age, are less likely to be married, and also healthier. And the chances of living a productive life are maximized.

Key Words : women education, crime against women, Domestic violence, sexual harassment, atrocities against women, mental harassment

Introduction.

Women's education and the consequent decline in crimes against women have not been thoroughly studied. It is a well known fact that women are being oppressed in history and even today. How can violence against women be brought under control? It is in the basic qualities of the society that it is known from its basic tendency. This does not mean that men are stronger or physically stronger than women, but it does mean that women in poor households are richer and dominant. Education is important and necessary for all in our country. Then there is the need for all, male or female. But if you look at our India, we have the lowest female literacy rate of men. In our country there is a lot but the pace of work is very low and the reason is that women are uneducated. According to Census 2021, our country's literacy rate is 74.04%. Male literacy rate is 82.14%. And female literacy rate 65.46%. Our country is steeped in tradition. In our country, different castes, religions, cultures, festivals are very important. Our country is very different from other countries. But the biggest irony in our country is that the injustice done to women and girls and the crimes that go with it. Men and women have been discriminated against since time immemorial. Education of women is important in our country. Because our country has the highest crime rate among women as compared to other countries. Every time a woman is in the house, out of the house, on the street, hospital, mall, theater, vegetable market, office, school, crimes are being committed against women. There is no place where women are safe. Everywhere a woman cannot take her parents or family with her for her own safety. She needs to be self-sufficient and independent to protect herself.

When a woman is educated, she faces the injustice that happens to her. Today, women are not only safe outside but also in their own homes. Not only today, but since ancient times, women have never had the right to education, any property, any power. Different types of restrictions have always been imposed on women. Then there will be dowry, sati, marriage at a young age. But the lives of so many women could not be counted on. When Savitribai Phule and Jyotiba Phule came as a ray of hope, they fought for women's education. Therefore, women's education laws came in the country, but even today in many places women are not given education, they are harmed, they are beaten, they are persecuted. Dogs are beaten and sometimes even killed. It all needs to stop somewhere. To make women self-reliant by educating them. Education enabled a woman to defend herself. Women just need support.

Importance of women education.

A woman's education can contribute to the development of not only the home but also the country. To be a good mother with proper education, to be a good worker and a good citizen. She makes good use of his education. The woman imparts the knowledge she possesses through her education, the use of the skills she possesses. Education helps women understand what is right and what is wrong for them. Women's education helps women to develop economically, socially, and mentally, so that women understand what laws are for them, what they are, and how they can benefit from them. There will be domestic violence against women. They can resist it on their own without anyone's help. Or they will fight against the atrocities that take place outside the home. When a woman learns, she is not just learning for herself, she is teaching the surrounding community and family. Only a woman can understand how important education is for her.

An educated woman can speak out against injustice. Women are being treated unfairly in the courtyard. Don't give respect to women, and it is often the case that where women work, there is harassment with them, dirty words are used, double work, double job but promotion is only for men, there are such things that women can always stop only because of education. Women's education allows women to speak out against injustice. Following some points about women education importance:

1. Women education improve women confidence level.
2. Women education allows to speak out against injustice.
3. Women education allows to lead healthy and productive lives.
4. Education gives women self-respect.

.Crimes Against Women in India

Crimes against women, injustice, atrocities are the most serious issues in India. Atrocities against women are a painful but also a political issue. Violence against women, even if it is not a development issue of our country, has a huge impact on a woman's life and her development. This deprives women of participation in national development and deprives them of a fair share in development efforts. Education is needed to stop injustice against women. Violence against women in our India is any form of physical or sexual violence against a woman, or specifically by a man against a woman. If we look at it today, all the common forms of violence against women in India include domestic abuse, or sexual abuse, and various acts like murder. In order to understand violence against women in India, women need to be self-reliant in education and the injustices against women are as follows.

1.Dowry Death-

Dowry system is a system in which the bride's family is heavily involved. They can be psychologically harassed and financially burden the bride's family by forcefully demanding money. [5] Dowry In some cases, dowry is used by the woman in various ways, ranging from emotional abuse or beating or injury to the death of a woman, leading to a wide range of crimes against women.

2.Honour killing-

In our country, honor killing is usually the killing of a family member i.e. the member due to which the rites of one's house or the name of one's house is tarnished. A person in a family who is considered to have brought dishonor and shame to the family in front of the public.[

3.Rape-

India is known as the most dangerous country in the world for sexual violence against women in its country.[39] Rape is one of the most common crimes in India. In India, the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 2013 defines rape as sexual and non-sexual penetration of a woman's body by a man without her consent. [40] According to the National Crime Records Bureau, a woman is raped every 20 minutes in India. [41] Rape cases increased by 3% from 2011 to 2012. [4] There were 392 incidents in 2012, a 46.8% increase from 268 cases in 2011. [4] Despite its prevalence, rape accounted for 10.9% of reported incidents of violence against women in 2016.

4.Domestic violence -

In India, a predominantly patriarchal culture is highly valued and given maximum importance. Domestic violence in India includes any form of violence inflicted or endured by a woman's relatives and others, but especially when a woman is subjected to violence at home or by a member of her own family or other male relatives. Abuse by members is violence.

Conclusion:

I believe that women's education is beneficial for not only women but also their family, their children .education make strong to women and strongly fight for their right and against the crime .Women need to recognize their role in the growth of the economy and this is the right time for uneducated women in rural areas to participate in the development of our country and take the necessary steps. Simultaneous processing of uneducated and well-educated women in the city. Women education important for women's self respect and education give women mentally physically and socially strong and fight for against the violence .
